The Girls' Parents Refuse to Settle New She Seeks to Annul the Mar- They Were Robbing a Swell Brookfor Their Ten Days' Outing.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., Sept. 18.-There is trouble ahead for Maria Bacon, of Bayport: Susie Bradford, of Brooklyn, and Edna Hartpole, of this place, as a result of their ten days' outing. The proprietors of the hotels on Long Island-and they only stopped at firstclass Summer resorts-claim that unless they are compensated for food and shelter furnished these young ladies during their runaway expedition, they will allow the State law in reference to the beating of innkeepers and hotel-keepers

Should the girls be taken before the local authorities and be found guilty, there would be no option on the parts with fine and impelsonment.

The parents of the young women in The parents of the young women insist that they will not pay the bills incurred during their Long Island trip.

Edna Hartpole says that she is not alarmed over the situation, however, as she has already been before the Justice of the Peace here, and she thinks that she has had considerable experience in courts. She says that the Justice treated her very pleasantly just after she was captured at Southampton, and that she would be delighted with a little more fun and excitement.

The young women are really well behaved girls as a general thing, and they are extremely attractive. They succeeded in fracturing the hearts of a number of young men at the Firemen's tournament, where they cut quite a

The scalp wound that he received by the fall is not considered dangerous.

The friends of Otto Moore and Ward claim that these three accidents in two days would not have occurred had reasonable precaution been taken in the management of the electric light wires. The Suburban Electric Light Company is to be handled without gloves, it is said, at the Coroner's inquest next Thursday night, on the death of Officer Otto.

The management of the Company claimed. who sat there could see, in the uncertain light, that one of the rowers was o man above the medium height, and th Not from any special curiosity, but pier had flagged, Seery called out, just

The mannager of the Company claimed that there was nothing wrong with its wires or poles at this point, and insisted that the policeman died from natural causes. The autopsy last night showed that he was killed by an electric shock, and the failure of the Company to take any precautionary measures since has aroused the wrath of the public.

Henry Clauss, the member of the Clauss Bottling Company who was injured at the same time that Edward Moore received the electric shock, has completely recovered.

two men rowing justily. In an instant the boat was lost to sight in the darkness.

Seery was carried to the Union Market police station, and from there sent to Bellevue Hospital.

Warden O'Rourke said this morning that Seery's wounds while painful, were not fatal, and that he would recover in due time. The builtet has been extracted, and Seery is doing well.

An hour after the shooting a pilot on a Grand street ferry-boat saw two men in a white-painted boat rowing up the river. There was a strong ebb tide, and the men were swearing loudly as they piled the oars. As the pilot watched them, they gave up the struggle against the waters, and started down the river. At 3 o'clock Beeclal Officers John J. Reilly and James McCarthy, who were stationed at pier 53, foot of Jackson street, saw two men come along the pier from the river. One was tall; the other was much shorter. The policemen arrested them after a struggle, but were compelled to draw their revolvers before the men would consent to go with them. One of the men is said to be an ex-convict.

He said he was William Clarkson, a driver, twenty-eight years old, of 670 Water street. The other prisoner gave his name as Thomas Meehan, twenty-eight years old, a laborer, of 298 Henry street. The police say that the latter prisoner is an ex-convict also.

Meehan and Clarkson were arraigned before Judge Cox in Essex Market Police Court this morning, and held without ball to await the result of Seery's injuries.

THEY WANT TROLLEY CARS.

CALDWELL, N. J., Sept. 18.—The citizens of this place and the Town Board met last night for the purpose of considering the granting of a franchise to industrial the resulting that Sheehan could not understand.

muttered something that Sheehan could not understand.

An hour and a half after that the Police hoat Patrol steamed up to East Tkird street pler. The captain had received the general alarm, and was patrolling the East River in the hopes of capturing the two men in the white hoat. Sheehan was out on the pler again, and he was questioned by some of the officers on the boat. Then he told of the white hoat and the two men that he had seen, and a search was made.

Along side of the pier, tied to an old brick soow, the white hoat was found, with their booty; others were not so for running froney cars through the place.

The Board and most of the citizens were in favor of granting the franchise, but Robert H. McCarter, a Newark lawyer, served an injunction on the Board, restraining them from taking action. The injunction was granted by Vice-chancellor Van Fleet on the application of E. R. Lane, a wealthy resident of Caldwell. There is talk of holding a mass-meeting to protest against the action of Mr. Lane.

To Sergt, King, this man said he had been walking along Pike street in search of his brother, who was on post. When he got near Pike and Monroe streets he heard a shot and saw two men running. He coulds't tell anything further than that, except that he had seen Walsh lying bleeding on the pavement. The men who were detailed on the case brought these witnesses to the Madison street station: Jacob Kudeman of 161 Monroe street; Louis Ferngold, 190 Madison street Joseph Prage, 4 Essex street; Samuel Grumosky, Pike and Monroe streets, keeper of a soda water stand, and Morris Levy, 29 Monroe street. Each of these witnesses told just as much as William McCarthy, but nothing more.

SHOT IN A LYNN ARMORY.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 18 .- James Madden, a private of the Eighth Regiment, was fatally injured at the armory last night by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of Lorrain J. Harvey. Two other men were injured at the same time. The regular weekly company drill had just finished when the gun was discharged. The builet struck a brick wall, glanced and split, a portion of it histing Madden in the Temple. A piece of brick also struck him about the same place, and two ugly gashes in the head resulted. He died in the hospital two hours later.

Capt. Murray, of Company I, had a narrow escape as another portion of the missile passed through the visor of his helmet, while Private MacIntee and Janitor John Carr were struck by fragments of brick, and were slightly injured. Harvey was locked up. He was late at drill and not present to obey the "open chamber" order that is given to prevent just such accidents. It is probable that Harvey's rife was loaded on one of the recent shoots of the company, and had not been discharged.
